Great communication opportunities on your temporary fence

Free advertising space

Although fences are primarily used to demarcate a temporary construction site, temporary fencing can also be used for other purposes. Use the Heras mobile fencing used on your construction site to communicate current or future projects. You can obstruct the view from outside at the same time. The banners also collect the dust generated by your construction site. One Heras temporary fencing can be used for about 7 m² of advertising. Brand awareness of your company, a preview of the current project, or a preview of future plans: anything can be printed on our screens. Experience maximum publicity at minimum cost.

- Maximum publicity
- Effective shielding

Concealing using a stable temporary partition

If temporary fencing has a banner attached, it may catch extra wind. We therefore always recommend mounting the fences semi-permanently (on posts) or providing them with Heras fence stabilisers. Not every Heras fencing is suitable for a banner to be attached to it. Our staff will be happy to help you.
